Price Rises On Livestock Create Stir

Receipts at Stockyards Here Drop During Rush Days on Farm, But Theories Vary at Other Markets

Busy farmers, coupled with the usual seasonal drop in numbers of livestock, are said to be responsible for movement of livestock from farm to market being at low-ebb and resultant soaring prices, it was indicated here today by some of the stockyard managers.

With mounting prices and light demand for meat at the exorbitant prices, William Anderson, of the Anderson Food Market, said Thursday that he is closing his store Saturday night for an indefinite period, "until meat prices come down within reach."

The sudden mounting of livestock prices throughout the livestock belt is attracting widespread attention, and a drop in demand for meat is accompanying the increased prices, reports state.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

I have heard a great many complaints recently, and in fact for, these many years, about noisy trucks roaring through the main streets, residential and business, at all hours of the day and night, making a great deal more noise than is necessary, arousing weary citizens from their rest at night, and making them believe momentarily that a tornado had struck the city.

Also the complaints about the unnecessary noise made by some of the locomotives throughout the night, have been many and frequent. Particularly do the complaints come from persons who are ill or from members of their families.

The shrieking, tooting, wailing, prolonged blasts shatter the stillness of the night, and I am like a great many others—can see no reason to justify all of the noise made by some of the trains.

Perhaps a little official attention regarding unnecessary noises would help lessen the two nuisances.

Policemen bump into many unusual experiences.

While the mercury was hanging around 90 degrees Tuesday afternoon, a call reached headquarters that a man was dead on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks here.

Going to the scene the policemen found a man "dead to the world" with a wine bottle, one-third full, clutched in his arm. He was lying across the track and the sun was providing him with a real tan about the face, neck and arms.

As the police started to pick him up, he opened his eyes and said:

"Can't a fellow go anywhere without you policemen catching up with him?"

Sugar Rationing For Home Ended

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—The last war-imposed coupon control over the American public vanished today, as sugar rationing for home, restaurant and hotel use ended at midnight.

After five years in which ration stamps meant more than money—when it came to meat, canned goods, shoes, tires, gasoline and a host of other things—individual Americans are free of coupon worries for the first time since April 28, 1942.

The last ration book can be thrown away.

However, sugar price controls remain. So does rationing of industrial sugar. But these two curbs are scheduled to end Oct. 31.

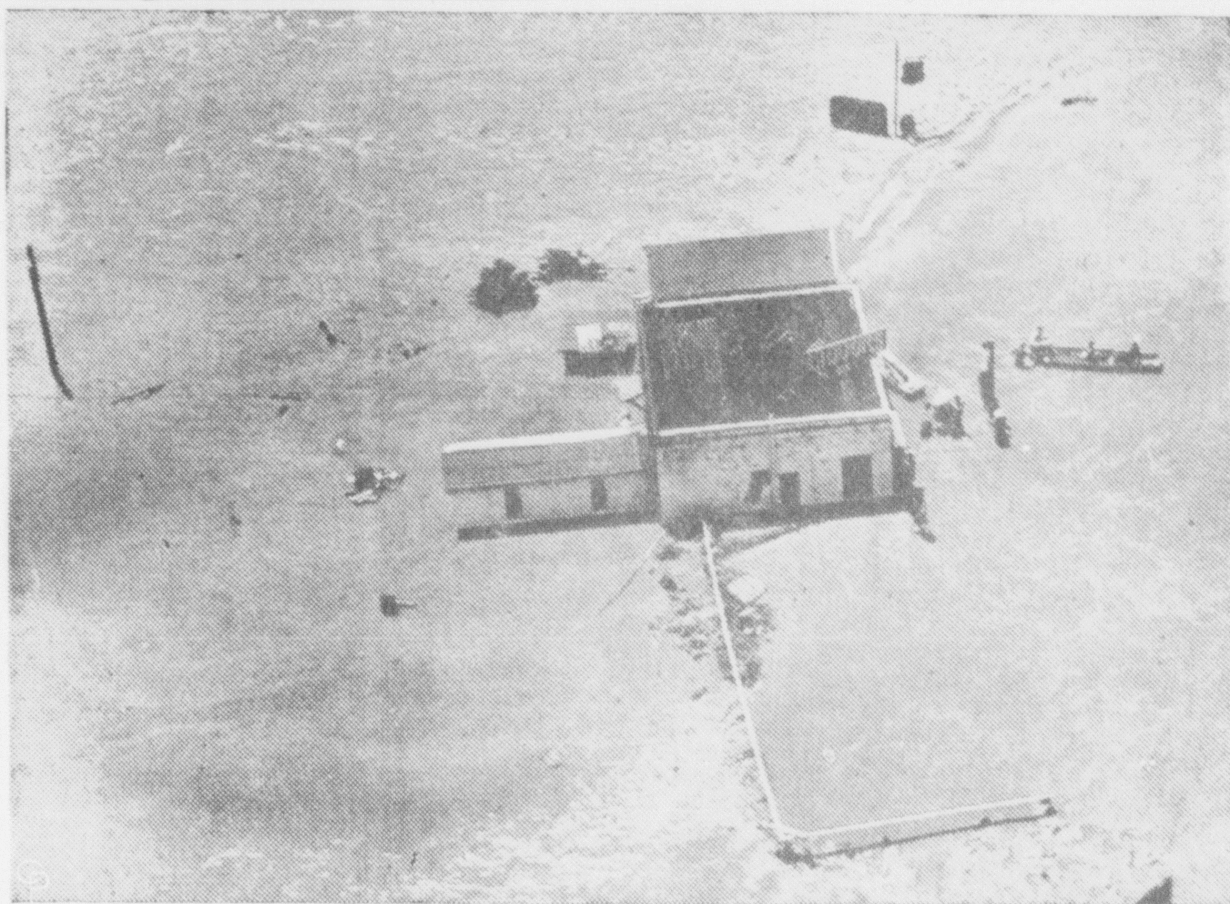

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson ordered the sugar ration end late yesterday, thus beating the Republican-controlled Congress to the draw. The House had set for a vote today a bill calling for an immediate end to household sugar rationing.

A Republican spokesman indicated Congress would go ahead with the bill to make sure no return to controls could be ordered.

Anderson said he had acted because larger quantities of sugar are available.

Moonshiners Fined

CINCINNATI, June 12—(AP)—Herschel Panckake, Jr., and James Littlejohn, both of rural route 1, Ironton, late yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of possessing an illicit still, mash and liquor and a federal judge gave each a suspended two-year prison and $500 fine.

COMPLETELY SURROUNDED BY THE FLOOD which swept Alexandria, Mo., a combination tavern and filling station, situated just across the Iowa State line, has only a rescue boat for business in what was formerly a driveway. Swollen waters from the Des Moines River joined the Mississippi River and broke small levees causing heavy property damage and a small loss of human lives in the inundated area. ## Action On Sewer Is Assured By Council at Busy Session

In a busy session Wednesday night, city council passed several ordinances and resolutions, promised early action on the sewer project in the northern part of the city, which has been pending a year or more, and authorized payment of $1,000 damages to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Denehey, for injuries sustained in collapse of a sidewalk in front of the Midland Block.

First action was taken in approving purchase of a Fleetmaster Chevrolet auto from the Brandenburg Motor Sales, at $1228, for use of the fire department.

Several bids had been submitted, and after trying out each of the cars upon which bids were submitted, Fire Chief Hall selected the Fleetmaster as the best for the purpose.

A resolution was passed, upon recommendation of City Manager Winston W. Hill, granting Mrs. Clark Robinson of Jeffersonville, head of the All-County Band Boosters, permission to stage a dance on Main Street between Court and Market, on June 27, for the purpose of raising funds for the All-County Band.

Judge R. H. Sites presented his report for May, showing total collections for the month to be $2,422.20, the largest amount collected any month in his many years as police court judge.

The collections were divided as follows: 59 city cases, $2,255.70; six traffic cases, $19; one county case, $7.50; 7 state cases $140. (Please Turn to Page Two)

Wilberforce President Ousted by AME Board

XENIA, O., June 12—(AP)—Dr. Charles H. Wesley, 55-year-old president of Wilberforce State University, oldest Negro educational institution in the nation, has been dismissed, effective tonight, by the board of trustees of the African Methodist-Episcopal Church.

The board action, taken yesterday, as not publicly announced but as confirmed by Dr. Wesley. The dismissal removed the educator from control of two of the three schools within the Wilberforce system. The university has a total enrollment of about 900.

Students staged a mass demonstration upon learning from Dr. Wesley that he had been dismissed "without charges and with no trial." They burned an effigy of 86-year-old Bishop R. C. Ransom, chairman of the A.M.E.'s university board, who reportedly opposed Dr. Wesley, the school's president since 1942.

Dr. Charles Leander Hill has been named president to succeed Dr. Wesley, Bishop Ransom and the Rev. Joseph Gomey announced in telegrams to newspapers.

Dr. Wesley indicated he would continue to head Wilberforce's college of education and industrial arts, which is sponsored by the state of Ohio. Both the theological college and college of liberal arts and sciences are supported by the A.M.E. church.

The university's 90th commencement was scheduled at 10:30 A.M. (3-5) today.

The action of the board of trustees climaxed a series of controversies between the university and Bishop Ransom who has asked publicly several times for Dr. Wesley's resignation.

The North Central Association of Colleges declined to accredit Wilberforce this year, but the association report mentioned Dr. Wesley as "the angle point of strength that would warrant continuation of accreditation for the current year."

Runaway Balloon Down in Canada

TORONTO, Ont., June 12—(AP)—The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. said today it received a report from George Bradley of Ripley, Ont., that a stray advertising balloon from Flint, Mich., came down in that Bruce County community late yesterday.

Bradley said the balloon's 300-foot cable caught in power wires. The 56-foot helium-filled balloon broke away from its mooring atop a Flint building.

Aircraft in that area and in Ontario were alerted. Trans-Canada airlines slowed down its Montreal-Toronto services last night for fear aircraft might strike the balloon's cable—from which dangled a 300-pound winch—in the dark. Services were restored to normal today.

A dispatch from Amherst, Ont., said the trailing 300-foot cable of the balloon, tangled in hydro lines yesterday afternoon blacking out electricity and telephone services for a time in that Lake Huron community some 50 miles southwest of Owen Sound.

First seen by a motorist about 2 P. M., the balloon came down on the Blue Water Highway near Amherst. The motorist twisted an ankle in a vain effort to stop it by stepping on the trailing wire.

REALLY FLEW AROUND ZANESVILLE, June 12—(AP)—Members of the Howard E. Miller family which lives near Roseville reported today they had seen last night about 7:30 o'clock a balloon which they believed to be the stray bag which broke loose from its mooring in Flint, Mich. yesterday.

The House then recessed although two other Senate measures were on the calendar for action.

Some legislators hinted that they might ask reconsideration of the vote by which the House earlier passed an administration-sponsored bill to reorganize the state agriculture department. It previously cleared the Senate.

The reorganization measure would increase the state board of agriculture from 10 to 12 members, one a veterinarian, and permit the director of agriculture to name an executive secretary to serve the board and act as State Fair manager.

More Theories About Mystery Of Baby Murder

Another 'New Angle' Being Worked On, Police Chief Hints

By KEN DAVIS

MASSILLON, June 12—(AP)—Massillon Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer said today he was "not bound by the accident theory" in the mysterious deaths of two baby girls in City Hospital's Pediatrics ward last Friday night.

"My mind is open and I am investigating all theories," he said. The chief indicated his investigators are working on a new angle but would not elaborate.

A reporter asked the chief if all stories had been checked. Switzer replied:

"I doubt all stories in this case until I can obtain proof."

Wary investigators still concentrated on the time element in the case and admitted their search for the killer had been narrowed by a report that no outsider had been present.

Dr. Persis Simmons, chief psychologist of the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus, said her questioning of three child patients at the hospital "ruled out the presence of outsiders last Friday night."

"If there had been strangers around that evening," said Dr. Simmons, "they would have made an impression on the children which would have remained."

Patrolman John Mohr of the Massillon Police Department and Stark County Detective Harry Grossglaub of Canton both said Dr. Simmons' report, details of which were kept secret by Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer, had narrowed the official investigation.

One investigator further explained renewed interest in the case's time-table by stating that nurse Marian Silke, who found eight-week-old Diane Jean Brand and 10-week-old Rosemary Morton dying in their cribs, now had grown "slightly uncertain" as to exact times. She had reported seeing the babies sleeping at 7:35 P. M. Friday and dying at 7:45 P. M.

CINCINNATI, June 12—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin gutted a two-story factory building, spread to the Cincinnati street railway barns where nine cars were burned, and was brought under control four hours later only after 29 fire companies had been called into action.

Five firemen were injured, none seriously. A policeman also was hurt as the blaze threatened for a time to get out of control and sweep through the west end industrial area. Several tenement houses were in the path of the blaze.

Fire Chief Barney J. Houston estimated damage at between $500,000 and $750,000.

These controls affect purchases of such things as household goods, refrigerators and automobiles.

Mr. Truman's views were stated in a letter to Marriner S. E. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, which wields the controls on installment-buying credit. Eccles read the letter to the housebanking committee.

WILMINGTON, June 12—(AP)—The "pushbutton" flight system developed as part of a program to beat the hazards of flying in bad weather.

Special instruments were pre-set for the take-off, to direct the plane on a course via Denver and Cincinnati, and set it down here. Engineers said the system should not be confused with "drone" or remote control flight, explaining that some human control must be exercised in operation of a "drone" plane.

Capt. Thomas J. Wells of Orlando, Fla., project officer and safety pilot, reported the flight from the coast was uneventful. "Landing technique" still must be improved.

Other members of the crew were: Capt. James H. E. Toner, Butler, Pa.; First Lt. Stephen J. Mazurek, Jonesville, Mich.; Tsgt. Franklin Shaver, Manassas, Va.; Tsgt. Wilmer McKee, Wooster, O.; Cpl. William Lewis, Paynesville, O.; George Johnson, project engineer of Xenia, O.; Carl Steinecker, instrument specialists, Columbus, O.; W. W. Downs, Wright Field Dayton, gyroscope representative; and James Anast, chief of the all-weather division's automatic-flight branch.

More Rain Coming To Midwest - Snow Blankets Rockies

(By The Associated Press)

The nation had a diversified weather diet today, ranging from snow in the Rockies and rain in the flooded midwest to unseasonable heat in the east.

The latest spring snow in the 75 year history of the Denver, Colo., weather bureau was reported there. Lander, Wyo., had six inches of snow and Cheyenne, Wyo., five with temperatures dropping to around 30 degrees. Mountain highways, however, were reported open to traffic.

The U. S. weather bureau in Chicago forecast continuing fairly heavy rain for much of the midwest which will add a new burden to the already flooded rivers. Showers which fell in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri last night and this morning were expected to end late today with the rain belt moving into Illinois and Indiana.

School Aid Bill Threatened By Legislative Row

Farm Board Increase Also Runs into New Complications

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, June 12—(AP)—Administration intervention left the House-passed Veatch and Van Aken labor control measures stranded in the Senate today, with some representatives in apparent "revolt" as a result.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert declined comment but Senate and House members groused openly about a possible deadlock which developed unexpectedly with only three days of the session left for lawmaking.

SPECIAL SESSION?

COLUMBUS, June 12—(AP)—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert said today that he was "not trying to close the doors on labor legislation" in the present session of the state legislature, and that he might, if necessary, call a special session to consider such matters.

Some representatives asserted no more Senate bills would pass the House until the labor measures were brought to a vote in the upper chamber.

Such action would endanger passage of the Daniels-Cramer school bill now in conference committee, appropriations measures, and much other important vital legislation.

The muddle stemmed from a three-hour caucus of Republican senators during which the governor voiced displeasure over the Van Aken bill.

"You can tear it up as far as I'm concerned," Herbert was reliably reported as telling caucus members who shuttled between his office and the upstairs meeting room.

Conferees were Senate Majority Leader Frank E. Whitmore (R-Summit) and Sens. Fred G. Reinert (R-Hamilton) and Roscoe R. Walcutt (R-Franklin).

The reported strategy was to let the Veatch resolution to ban the closed shop and the Van Aken bill to checkrein unions both die in the Senate commerce and labor committee.

Chairman Walcutt said "I really don't know when the committee will meet," when asked about action on the bills. Otherwise he was mum.

One senator said he was "not too sure the bills wouldn't come out of committee," however.

Learning of the caucus action, House members promptly defeated a Senate bill, making it clear it was a show of displeasure.

They voted 60 to 40 against a measure by Senator Reinert to allow cities to build swimming pools outside cooperation limits, at least 10 representatives rising to change "yes" votes to "no."

The House then recessed although two other Senate measures were on the calendar for action.

Some legislators hinted that they might ask reconsideration of the vote by which the House earlier passed an administration-sponsored bill to reorganize the state agriculture department. It previously cleared the Senate.

The stars include Charles Coburn, Lloyd Nolan, Peggy Cummins, Robert Arthur, Geraldine Wall, and Burt Ives. The latter, famed folk balladeer of screen, radio and record, will sing for the spectators, accompanying himself on the guitar.

Last Sunday's program was attended by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and many other notables, all of whom said they planned to return for the next weekend's events.

Steeple Jacks Reconditioning 200 Foot Stack

The Dayton Power and Light Company's 200 foot smokestack on Main Street, is receiving a general overhauling, said A. E. Weatherly, manager, for which a ladder running all the way up the stack has been constructed.

This overhauling will include patching work and a new cement paint job. The patching is being done as the scaffolding is moved up the stack, and the painting will be done on the way down. A new lightning rod, to replace the one which was destroyed by lightning some months ago, will also be installed.

The work is being done by the Industrial Chimney Repair Company of Indianapolis. Weatherly said that the job would probably take from three weeks to a month to complete. This work is done every eight to 10 years, he said.

The smokestack is used in connection with the company's central heating system. Weatherly pointed out that the height of the stack allows the smoke to travel above the houses and buildings in the city, preventing the smoke from becoming a nuisance.

Damage Settlement

City Manager Hill brought up the matter of paying damages of $750 to Margaret Denehey, and $250 to her husband, as result of injuries sustained April 12, 1943, when a slab of limestone in the sidewalk in front of the Midland Block on Main Street, collapsed and Mrs. Denehey was precipitated into the excavation underneath.

Hill said that settlement in all of the various cases filed had been made for $3500, with understanding that the city's share should be $1,000 with Albert Harper, the property owner, paying the remaining $2500.

Hill was commended for arranging the settlement, and council adopted a resolution authorizing payment.

Hill also stated that he was obtaining from Toledo a copy of an ordinance prohibiting openings under sidewalks unless the property owner assumes full responsibility for all damages, and that such an ordinance must be adopted for the city's future protection.

A delegation of property owners from the northern part of the city in the area to be serviced by a new sewer project, which has been under contemplation for a long time, was present to urge speedy relief, and was assured that final legislation would be passed this month, and a special meeting would be called if necessary.

The city manager told the group that a great deal of work had been necessary to get final legislation ready, and that the contract should be let in July.

Juke Box License
An ordinance to license all "juke boxes" was submitted and read the first time. An annual fee of $25 is provided, with fine up to $250 for operating such mechanically operated music boxes, without a license.

A resolution was adopted to pay $42.50 for the municipal law journal service, which Hill said was a most valuable thing for the city.

City Engineer Norman E. Meranda reported on progress made in constructing new man holes for cleaning sewers, and on patching streets, as well as other work. The city manager said he had received many complaints about train whistles at night, and asked that all persons, objecting to the noise, to call or write him, and if necessary, an ordinance will be drafted prohibiting the noise. He said, however, that such an ordinance would eliminate railroad companies' liability for accidents at street crossings.

When the city manager submitted a lengthy ordinance to license and regulate mechanical amusement devices, it was the signal for a vigorous protest by Attorney F. Scott Zimmerman, who declared that such devices usually carried some gambling element with them.

The ordinance, which was passed after considerable argument back and forth between Zimmerman and the city manager, provides for a license fee of $25 per year for such devices where one to four cents is placed in the slot, and $50 per year for devices where 5 to 10 cents is placed in the slots.

Building Lots Are Plowed By Unknown Man

When workmen went to the scene to start excavating for the foundation for two new brick houses in the 1100 block on South Main Street, Thursday, they found that someone, apparently mistaking the lots for some other lots, had plowed them for a garden, Wednesday.

The new houses are to be built by Wilbur Horney, one of them being for himself, and the other for D. S. Cochran. Permits to build were obtained Thursday.

The structures are to be of brick, modern throughout, and each will contain five rooms.

A fine of not to exceed $100 or 90 days imprisonment, or both, is carried in the ordinance.

During the argument Hill stated that the measure was not to license any gambling device, and that it would get rid of many of the pin ball machines.

Zimmerman said that pin ball machines could not be operated profitably unless where gambling exists as a part of their operation, and that to be operated legally the machines must be played for amusement or to provide a certain fixed amount of merchandise. He said they are "highly capable of being used for gambling machines."

Hill declared that the ordinance specifically provided that the machines must be operated for pleasure only, and if used for anything else, would be seized and destroyed under terms of the ordinance.

"A strict watch will be kept on their operation," Hill stated.

While the argument was still under way, member Willis moved the ordinance be adopted, and the motion carried.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO, June 12—(AP)—A selling wave hit grain pits in the last hour of trading today and prices backed down quickly, in most cases going below the preceding close.

Prior to the late downturn all grains had displayed strength with corn moving to new seasonal highs. At one time July corn sold at $1.92½, highest for any contract since 1920, when a peak of $1.97½ was reached. Early buying was based on unfavorable weather developments.

Heavy selling continued through to the close with final prices at the day's close.

Wheat finished 1½ to 2 cents lower, July $2.14½-¼, corn was down 3 to 5½, July $1.86½-1.86, and oats were 1½ to 2½ lower, July 59-60½.

NEW YORK, June 12—(AP)—Demand for selected industrials propped the stock market today in the face of slipping tendencies among some pivots.

Activity declined following a lively opening. Major oil, steel, motor and rubber issues were among those easing slightly. Beverage shares maintained their strength. Near the fourth hour gains and losses were well distributed.

Taft-Hartley Bill

The Taft-Hartley labor bill has at last been approved by such overwhelming majorities of both House and Senate that it seems certain of becoming law even over the possible veto of President Truman. In view of the bitter controversy which has marked the long months of its formation, we might well consider the words of Senator Irving M. Ives of New York, member of the liberal Republican wing which has succeeded in moderating some of the more stringent parts of the original measure. Said Senator Ives, in final debate upon the bill:

"I for one had hoped that no legislation at all might be required. But the course of the hearings of the Senate Labor Committee indicated to me that there is abuse, that there is inequity, and that these abuses must be corrected and these inequities must be eliminated. And no one could have listened to those hearings without knowing that something was wrong."

"We received no help whatever from the representatives of organized labor," the senator went on. "Organized labor has no right now to complain too bitterly. They had their chance; they didn't come through."

"And so we compromised, constantly bearing in mind our over-all objective. This legislation as a whole—and you have to deal with it as a whole—does go down the middle of the road. It will not 'destroy' trade unionism. This bill is not the end product and rightfully it will be subject to change."

These arguments are worth calm and careful thought as the heat of battle dies away. And of them all the one most to be remembered by all sides is the last—that, as with every act of Congress, this is not necessarily the final word. If time should prove that more stringent regulation is needed, the change will be made. If, on the other hand, it becomes clear that the present bill has erred on the side of strictness, that, too, can be altered to suit the will of the citizens of this our democracy, just as is now apparent that the present Wagner law was too one-sided and needed revision.

Sisu

We call it intestinal fortitude, or stick-to-itiveness; old-fashioned writers called it pluck; possessors of it do not know when they are beaten, and keep plugging on, even in the face of defeat. The people of Finland wrap all this up in one word and call it "Sisu."

Finland has earned a reputation for international integrity by strict payment of her debts, and is now applying the same principles to the payment of reparations to Russia. William McGaffin, writing from Helsinki, says that in two years the Finns have paid a third of the total of 300 million gold dollars which Russia demands as part of their reparations. This is, as McGaffin says, pretty good for a country the size of Montana, with a population of four million.

Besides gold, Russia demands, and will get, Finland says, huge shipments of machinery, ships, and wood products. They have also turned over to Russia the province of Karelia, the scene of bloody engagements during the war. This is fertile agricultural region, and was evacuated by 450,000 Finns when Russia took it over.

It is to be hoped that with all their national "Sisu," the Finns can manage this huge reparations program, and at its completion they will be allowed many years of peace in which to build up their country for their own benefit.

More Horrors

Glen L. Martin, the Baltimore airplane builder, produced a new wonder the other day, in the form of a radio-active cloud which can be released at a great height without the explosion of an atomic bomb. The inventor says it would be of great military value. All this sort of thing is interesting, and apparently necessary at our present state of what we call civilization. We must be ready to destroy real or potential enemies, lest they destroy us and all our works.

It seems like a travesty on our civilization. We have but lately finished the greatest of all wars, and thought we might have peaceful progress and the general decencies of life for at least a few years. Yet we once more seem to be at the mercy of forces beyond our control, operating not only on a national but even a supernatural scale.

When shall this great, beautiful and useful world be allowed to fulfill its destiny and the glories, wonders and comforts for which it seems to have been created? When, if ever, shall our race of men be fully developed?

Warmer Arctic

"Arctic weather" has heretofore meant the bitterest of wintry visitations. Those days may be ending, if Dr. Hans Ahlmann, a Swedish professor of geography, is right. Since 1900 Arctic air temperatures, according to Dr. Ahlmann, have risen ten degrees. That is really an immense rise, by any system of measurement. The ocean off Spitzbergen has risen three to five degrees in temperature also, with correspondingly faster melting of glaciers. That means eight months a year for navigation in those waters, where in 1910 the period was three.

Why is the Arctic warming up? Nobody knows, yet it may be highly important that we should. If this is taking place in the Antarctic as well as in the Arctic, the world's oceans are going to be much higher. That means that eventually shore dwellers all over the globe will be flooded out, and will have to seek new homes. Such mass migration would affect us all.

Spinal X-Ray Helpful in Diagnosis

By HERMAN N. BUENDESEN, M.D.

THE pain of sciatica is one of the most clearly defined and best recognized in the whole list of aches that flesh is heir to.

In other words, there is no guesswork about it. If you have sciatica, you are going to know it by the heavy, gnawing sensation which usually starts in the lower part of the back and follows the course of the great sciatic nerve down the back of the thigh and leg to the foot.

Pressure Reveals Tenderness
Pressure reveals that there is tenderness, not only over the lower part of the back, but also in the muscles of the thigh and leg.

After the condition has continued for some time, these muscles may grow flabby and become smaller in size. There may also be some disturbances of the reflexes. The pain becomes worse when there is any movement which stretches the nerve. Thus, bending the hip with the knee straight is painful, so that a patient with sciatica usually sits with his knees slightly bent. In practically all cases, when the sciatica starts, there are pain and stiffness of the lower part of the spine, and many patients have suffered previous attacks of "lumbago."

Cause of Sciatica
When it comes to the cause of sciatica, the picture is not so clear. One of the common causes is what is known as protruded intervertebral disks. The intervertebral disks are pieces of cartilage which act as cushions between the small bones of the spine. When they protrude they are out of place. According to Dr. Arthur S. Bundell Bankart of England, in about three or four out of each hundred cases of sciatica, protrusion of these disks is the cause.

In making a diagnosis of protruded disk, an X-ray of the spine is of course helpful. When the X-ray is taken, a substance known as iodized oil may be injected into the spinal canal to make the protruded disk more visible in the X-ray plate.

Another Cause
Another common cause of sciatica is arthritis of the lower part of the spine, that is, inflammation of the joints in this area. Dr. Bankart thinks that this is the most common cause of sciatica, particularly of the type which so frequently afflicts middle-aged and elderly persons.

In this condition, also, X-ray examination of the spine is helpful in making a diagnosis. In treating sciatica due to arthritis, rest in bed, perhaps the wearing of a cast to lessen movement of the joints, heat, massage and exercise all are of benefit.

Actual inflammation of the sciatic nerve may occur on occasional instances due to infection and other causes, and of course this will lead to the pain of sciatica. As a general rule, this is a mild condition and clears up with rest.

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—Despite mass firings resulting from the administration's recent economy measure, the U. S. Civil Service is currently posting examination announcements for certain federal jobs.

The examinations are being held in public buildings on set dates throughout the nation. Wanted are the following:

Aeronautical research scientists, chemists, clinical psychologists, dieticians, engineers, physicists, psychologists (personal counselors), student dieticians and, for Washington and vicinity alone, stenographers and typists.

It was explained the examinations, halted by the government during the war, when no permanent appointments to federal jobs were made, are being resumed to give veterans a chance to compete for such openings as many occur.

After applicants take the examinations, eligibles are listed with the agencies having jobs to fill.

The assassination of President Garfield on July 2, 1881, resulted in the Civil Service Act which provides for the examination of most of the government's thousands of employees.

Prior to that each president hired his own set of employees "under the spoils system."

President Garfield was waiting for a train to take him to a college class reunion on that July 2. A Mr. Guitau, a disgruntled job seeker slipping through the crowds milling around the chief executive in the railroad station, and shot him twice in the back.

While the president lingered three painful months before his death, the American people were deeply roused over the tragedy. Impatience at the spoils system became indignation.

three members, not more than two belonging to the same party. The bill became law Jan. 16, 1883.

When it first started operating, the commission's staff consisted of the three commissioners, one secretary, a chief examiner, a stenographer and a messenger.

Any other employees needed to help out when the load got too heavy were detailed to the commission from whatever other department could be persuaded to lend them. And they didn't lend their top employees at that.

Not only did the commission have to borrow employees, but rooms and stationery from other departments. For a while its offices were set up in the department of agriculture annex.

In 1894 appropriations were provided to enable the commission to enlarge its staff, but there was no increase in personnel until 1903. Now the commission is hiring and paying its own staff. It has 3,500 employees here and in the field.

Here's to the Women-Folk!

There's a line at the heading of the Woman's Column in my paper that reads:

"Women through the years have stood keepers of the flame..."

Pretty easy to see what it means; whether it's the flame on the hearth, or the candle in the window, or the feeling of warmth that surrounds a home.

It's the women who are guardians of the things we cherish about homelife—who are tolerant of ashes on the rug; the rings a glass of beer can leave on tables; or the comfortable but too-worn chair that we can't bear to throw away.

From where I sit, those little satisfactions become more and more important in this world of strife and change. Smoke rings curling from a mellow pipe; a glass of beer; a comfortable chair before the fire. And I'd like to salute the housewives—"keepers of the flame"—whose tolerance and understanding helps preserve them!

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

RUFUS TOOK off his coat, threw it and his hat to a davenport, went to the fireplace and stood staring into the flames. Then his shoulders lifted with a long breath and he swung around to her.

"Do YOU think I'm a fool?" Diane cried. "Then you're going to refuse that money? Oh, I was so afraid!"

A little smile pulled at the muscles of Rufus' mouth. "I was hoping you'd say it that way! That's why I called you. It helps to know there is another person as crazy as I am! Another nut!"

Diane slipped her arm through his. "Has it been awful Rufus?"

"Intolerable at the office. Congratulations and advice. There's been a pack of bond salesmen outside my door. And Sadie Poole, that gossip hunter from the society room, keeps at my heels, begging for a story. I've told her I'd wring her neck if she didn't leave me alone!"

Diane gave a slight shake of her head. She had not meant that, though she knew how intolerable it all must be to Rufus. "But Page—what does she say?"

Rufus walked to the window, back again, one hand deep in his pocket, the other pushing at his hair.

"Ought I expect her to see it as I do? See beyond the fact that if I take it, her father and mother will give their consent to her marrying me. And if I refuse, they'll have another argument against me. That I'm queer to the point of insanity—that there's more to it than appears on the surface, that my family threw me out for something or other and my uncle forgave me only on his deathbed."

His tone conveyed a deep weariness. Diane could imagine what these last few evenings with Page had been.

Rufus flung himself down into a chair. "It makes me feel a brute, to do this to Page! As it was, the poor kid's been in a refined sort of torment for me, all this winter. And now I'm putting this on her! Her father and mother asked me for dinner, night before last. I suppose it was to be the official recognition. And I declined to go. Page was hurt. She wouldn't agree with me that, with it in my mind to turn down that inheritance, I'd be appearing under false pretenses."

Diane did not feel sympathetic toward Page. "What will Page do—if you refuse it?" she asked bluntly.

"She hasn't said, but I think I know. She'll go south—she was going anyway, you know, and after a few weeks I'll get a letter from her: that'll end it all. But she has said that if I will abandon this obsession of mine, show some consideration for her—" The despair with which he spoke the words told Diane they were Page's.

"She'll stay here and we'll get married at once."

"Rufus, you told me, one day, that at the cost of such compromise, it'd be too dearly won! Or something like that! You meant it."

Diane shook her head. "No," she said soberly. "Dad knows more how to go after what he wants than I do! He follows a straight line and I go in circles. Of course, he's had to, and I haven't!"

"How much do you know of your father's business affairs, Di?"

She was more surprised at the soberness of his tone than at the question. "Very little. I couldn't have kept up with them if I'd tried. It was always one thing and too much. You have to keep something of yourself—" Diane was incoherent in her urgency.

Rufus muttered, "But if you've found the girl who's like the one you've lived with in your thoughts—if you've been knocking around for a long time, alone—"

Diane went close to the side of his chair. "Rufus, it's a longer time, ahead! Oh, I wish I knew now to say it! But you hate cowardice—and wouldn't you be cowardly, if you gave in? Wouldn't you have to despise yourself—all the rest of your life?"

He lifted his head. His face was strained but his half-grin touched it. "Funny that a little feather-weight like you can speak such wisdom!" He closed his hand over hers where hers lay on the chair arm.

It was his answer, a pledge to her as well as to himself.

Diane drew her hand away. "I'll tell Mrs. Brill to bring some whisky and soda with our tea."

She was grateful for the excuse to go out of the room, to get under control this stirring of feeling in her sympathy for Rufus, and with it a warm satisfaction, close to triumph. Perhaps he WAS crazy and she was, too! But she was glad, glad!

She was aware that Mrs. Brill was observing the heightened color on her cheeks. "If she knew what we'd been talking about!"

"We'll have our tea now, Mrs. Brill."

She herself carried the whisky and soda and glasses back to the library. Rufus was lifting his glass to her, with a little gesture of gaiety, when Mrs. Brill came in with the tea tray.

The housekeeper gave Rufus a long look before she withdrew. Diane made a little face at her departing back. "The old goose is shocked because I have you here!"

"With Sadie Poole on my trail, I thought it was a swell idea," Rufus laughed. "If we'd gone into any lounge in town, we'd probably have found her at the next table."

"As it is, she may be waiting outside! I remember she used to follow me around—"

But they only laughed.

Drinking his tea, Rufus looked about him with interest. "A beautiful room, this! A lot of books!"

"Father ordered them in one big lot. And never looks into one of them. He'd say that himself. He'd say the shelves had to be filled, so what? Rufus, I think you'd like my dad. He's a grand, simple sort—"

"Like you?" Rufus put in, his eyes on Diane, warm with friendliness.

Diane shook her head. "No," she said soberly. "Dad knows more how to go after what he wants than I do! He follows a straight line and I go in circles. Of course, he's had to, and I haven't!"

"How much do you know of your father's business affairs, Di?"

She was more surprised at the soberness of his tone than at the question. "Very little. I couldn't have kept up with them if I'd tried. It was always one thing and then another." She remembered that the piling up of wealth for the wealth itself was anathema to Rufus. She added quickly: "I don't think Dad actually cares about the money he makes—it's the making it. Each thing's a big gamble with him and gambling is in his blood. Perhaps, if he could have gone to school and college, he'd have been an engineer and built bridges where no one believed bridges could be built—that sort of thing. He's in New York this winter about something bigger than anything he's undertaken yet."

"He may over-reach himself."

Negro College Fund Endorsed By Legislature

Resolution Offered By Rep. Perrill Is Approved by House

When and if an appeal for funds for the 33 private Negro colleges in the country is ever made in Washington C. H., it will be with the endorsement of the state's General Assembly through its approval of a resolution introduced in the House by Virgil Perrill, who represents Fayette County in the lower house of the Legislature.

The resolution was sponsored by four representatives, Perrill, Mrs. Margaret E. Barkley of Cincinnati, William D. Saunders and Francis E. Young, colored attorneys from Cuyahoga County, but Perrill was selected to introduce it from the floor of the House.

It was passed unanimously. The General Assembly, thus, put its stamp of approval on the United Negro College Fund, Inc., which was described in the resolution as a "voluntary organization, founded in 1943 and incorporated in 1944, for the purpose of conducting a united appeal annually for funds with which to help meet the current operating expenses of member institutions."

The resolution points out that the fund has had "the active support of a group of prominent persons who have served as national campaign officers. Among them have been John D. Rockefeller, Jr., chairman, national campaign advisory committee; Bruce Barton, chairman, foundations committee; Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., vice chairman; Walter Hoving, New York department store executive, and Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of Chase National Bank."

In approving the resolution, the representatives went on record as having registered their wholehearted endorsement of the objects and purposes of the United Negro College Fund and the noble cause for which it is pledged in that our only hope for raising the living standards of the Negroes of the nation lies in education and a better preparation for a higher standard of living.

DUMP PROTESTED

OSU Corrects Release About Weight of Pigs

County Agriculture Agent W. W. Montgomery calls attention to an error which was released from the Animal Husbandry Department, Ohio State University under date of May 19. Herbert H. Barnes, extension animal husbandman was widely quoted in this release as saying that swine improvement work in Minnesota had resulted in pigs weighing 233 lbs. at eight weeks of age.

Under date of May 6, 1947, Barnes had issued a letter to all County Agents as follows:

"Sow Testing Gets Results. Those counties, in which sow testing is being conducted, will be interested to know that nine years of sow testing in Minnesota have resulted in 100 percent increase in average litter weights at 56 days. Their average litter weight in 1938 was 112 pounds, and in 1946 it was 233 pounds."

The error in the news release of May 19 quoted these figures for average litter weights as being average pig weights.

County Agent Montgomery states that one of the ways to find out that farmers read the information which comes from the colleges of agriculture and experiment stations, is to make a mistake like the above release.

Fayette County plans to do some sow testing work in its swine program next year.

Young Business Men Planning New Committee

Farmers Are To Be Included in New Group Here

The young businessmen and farmers of the city are going ahead today with plans for a young businessmen's committee of the Chamber of Commerce, following a meeting Wednesday at the Washington Hotel when Fred Rost, chamber secretary, outlined ideas for the group.

The initial action of the young businessmen and farmers was taken several months ago when they conducted and directed the two-week clean up, paint up and fix up campaign sponsored by the chamber. However, no formal committee has been set up since that time, said Rost.

Whether or not the group has any fixed objective, Rost said that there would be advantages to organizing the group into a semi-social group. Originally, the group had thought of organizing themselves into a separate and independent group, however, after consideration, it was thought that the duplication of effort on the part of the chamber and such a group would be unnecessary in Washington C. H.

Rost said that the board of directors had been anxious to have a representative of the group on the ballot for this year's elections, but organization had been incomplete and so such action was not taken this year. However, Rost said that the board is anxious to have a representative next year from among the young businessmen and farmers and if they did organize, and met often enough, this could be done.

At present, there are 27 young business men and farmers on the rolls of the embryo organization. Six of these members, Bill McCoy, Louis Baer, Eli Craig, Fred A. Woollard, Bill Junk and Frank Weade attended the meeting, at which plans were also discussed for organizing a Cancer Society within the group.

Ohio Congressman Supports Truman

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—Rep. Kirwan (D-Ohio), ardent advocate of the policies of the late President Roosevelt, described President Truman today as entitled to "100 percent" support of the Democratic party.

Spiking any doubt about his own sentiments, Kirwan told a reporter that he is backing Mr. Truman for the nomination next year "because he is doing a good job."

"In fact," Kirwan said, "Mr. Truman has done such an excellent job that he has proved himself the best possible successor to Franklin Roosevelt."

Heroism Medal Is Sought For Boy's Rescuer

Admiration Grows For Robert Lute Who Ignored Own Safety

Winston W. Hill, city manager and attorney, had an idea . . . and today it was snowballing into a movement.

Hill said the more he thought about the almost miraculous escape of Russell Jordan from drowning in an old pit filled with dirty water and assorted debris on the site of the old Baker Wood Preserving Co. just off South Fayette Street, the more he was impressed by the heroic efforts of Robert Lute, who dragged the prostrate form of the 15-year-old boy out.

To a few friends and associates, Hill suggested that Lute deserved some recognition. So earnestly did he express himself, that others echoed his conviction that something should be done to try to get him the Carnegie Medal for heroism.

Thus, the ball was started to rolling.

The Chamber of Commerce was one of the first to come through with an offer to help.

Getting a Carnegie Medal is not a simple matter. To assure the worthiness of the case, sponsors are required and affidavits must be submitted through proper channels. Fred Rost, the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said he had learned in his first study of ways and means for making the application.

Hill was starting his investigation along other lines with the same objective. Submission of a resolution to council was one of his first moves.

Lute, meanwhile, was going about her daily work entirely unaware of the gratitude and admiration his act last Sunday had aroused.

And, Russell, who was given only a fifty-fifty chance to survive when he went into Doctors' Hospital in Columbus Sunday evening, was making satisfactory progress toward recovery.

Lute had to dive into the grease-scurmed water four times before he could extricate the seemingly lifeless boy from the tangle of pipes and timbers. He disregarded the possibility that he easily could become fastened in the same debris.

Firemen and police rushed out with the respirator to take over the work of reviving him. But, Lute had started long before with artificial respiration.

As soon as he began to show signs of life, he was taken to the office of Dr. Clarence G. Hayes, who had rushed out to give professional supervision.

Because his condition was so precarious, Dr. Hayes stayed by his side during the dash to the Columbus hospital in the Cox and Parrett ambulance. Twice during the trip he had to resort to the respirator to revive him when he lost consciousness.

Just what the next move toward getting recognition for Lute still is uncertain. But, whatever it is, it is expected to be made in the immediate future. Writings may be called on to give their detailed accounts and organized groups may be given an opportunity to join the endorsement.

Turnpike Bill Is Opposed By Petroleum Men

Statement Is Issued
By Committee of Oil Industry

Apparently strong opposition is flaring up against Ohio Turnpike bill which provides for a system of toll roads in the state, to be built at heavy expense, and paid for with revenues from toll collections.

The Cincinnati Enquirer editorially, has come out strong against the measure, and the Petroleum Industry Committee of Ohio with headquarters in Youngstown, has called for defeat of the bill which would set up a "turnpike commission" to build the roads.

The commission would be given the right to buy or condemn public as well as privately-owned lands, property and franchises, to fix tolls, and to issue tax-free revenue bonds to finance its operations.

The petroleum industry committee, which is said to represent all elements in the industry which supplies principal fuel and service to prospective toll road users, points out that:

"Ohio's freedom from mountainous country, difficult river crossings, and other natural barriers, means that the reasons which justified the establishment of a toll turnpike in Pennsylvania are not present here. Ohio's need is not for the construction of one or a few specific toll roads, but for the progressive improvement of the free highway system under a coordinated plan through which

Mrs. Hannah Irvine opened her home Tuesday evening to the Brown Circle of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church. Co-hostesses were: Miss Vina Finch, Mrs. Overton Hire and Mrs. Walter Jones. The devotional service was led by Mrs. Donald Philhower. The program topic was "Alaska," and Mrs. John Dana read an article on the subject. Mrs. Robert Wilson gave a talk on the various federal funds would be available to match state funds.

"Experience on the Pennsylvania turnpike has shown that a road of this sort in Ohio would nowhere near pay for itself. A survey by the federal bureau of Public Roads in 1939 showed that the potential income to be collected from a national system of toll roads would meet less than half the cost of upkeep, to say nothing of interest on the bonds. In case of a default, the state would probably have to buy the project at great expense to all Ohio taxpayers.

"The rights of the turnpike commission to let exclusive concession contracts to gasoline firms, garage and restaurant operators, under the proposed bill, would defeat the principle of free competition along the highways. This would give the highest bidder for any concession a complete monopoly, at the expense of small business operators and other concerns who would lose the opportunity to compete for turnpike trade."

Exports Blamed For Meat Prices

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Foreign bidding for meat for export by agencies willing to pay up to four cents a pound above American wholesalers was blamed today for spiralling prices of the domestic retail market.

Industry spokesmen in New York and Philadelphia were agreed that meat exports to Europe had driven prices up here from three to 11 cents a pound. "Within the last few weeks," Jack Kranis, president of the National Meat Industry Council, said, "agents of buyers in England, Germany, Poland, Belgium, Holland and France and other countries in that part of Europe have been buying everything they can get in slaughtered meat, and they are paying up to four cents a pound more than American buyers are willing to pay."

Cancer Funds Obtained Here Are To Be Used

Organization Will Be Set Up Here
Under Plan

With only one year to go for Fayette County to take advantage of the funds collected in cancer drives, the young business men of the Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday in the Washington Hotel to hear a representative of the Ohio Division of the American Cancer Society, Inc., explain the methods for setting up an administrative organization here.

J. P. Kalina, field representative for the society from Cleveland pointed out that the funds raised in cancer drives here in the past two years are now lying dormant in the society's Cleveland treasury, earmarked for Fayette County but useless because no proper administrative body is operating here. These funds may remain inactive in the treasury for three years, he said, and then they will be turned over to the state organization for general use.

Kalina stressed the fact that Fayette County should have a say in the way this money is spent, but under the laws of the corporation, this is possible only if an approved body is set up here.

With only six out of 27 of the young business men present, they did not feel that they should assume the responsibility for promising to set up such a group.

However, Fred Rost, chamber secretary, suggested a meeting soon at which he hoped more members would appear and possible action be taken.

Eli Craig, who directed this year's cancer drive here, said that the Cancer Society is organizing Ohio's 88 counties this year so that drives similar to the infantile paralysis, Red Cross and tuberculosis drives can be conducted. He said that here, this year had netted $601.23. He suggested that the young men might take over the drive since the older men had assumed the burden of a number of campaigns during the war and since.

In explaining the set up of a Cancer Society, Kalina said that the primary objectives of such a group were to further the knowledge, prevention and cure of cancer and to educate the public on the subject.

He said that if a county board were organized, it must have the sanction of the county Medical Society and representation from all parts of the county. Also, a representative from the Medical Society must be on the executive board. A Cancer Society may be organized within any other group, he pointed out, as long as it has a charter from the state division. Kalina promised that the state division would contact the Medical Society here to get its approval.

In addition, Kalina presented a few of the precepts on which a Cancer Society is founded. He said that such groups were warned against paying doctor's bills for anyone and that these groups cannot own or operate any kind of medical facilities at all. However, these facilities should be made available through hospitals or medical groups and may be purchased by the board and donated with no strings attached.

Any information printed or information centers set up, must have the approval of the Medical Society. He stressed the fact again that without an organization, the 50 percent of the money collected to which the county is entitled will remain useless.

Those present at the meeting were Craig, Fred A. Woollard, Bill McCoy, Louis Baer, Bill Junk, Frank Weade and Fred Rost.

Plan to Wire More Farms in This Community

Meeting To Be Held Here For Aiding In Project

In an effort to aid rural electrification in the Miami Valley, and especially in the Washington C. H. and Wilmington communities, the Dayton Adequate Wiring Bureau has announced the appointment of Robert L. Pierce as a field representative who will work from the bureau's new headquarters in Xenia.

A meeting of the electrical contractors from surrounding communities will be held in Washington C. H. soon, the bureau announced. Pierce's appointment was made at a similar meeting in Xenia at which the bureau was host to electrical contractors from Cedarville, South Charleston, Jamestown, Waynesville, Spring Valley and Xenia.

The group appointed Ernest Smith, Spring Valley; Dave Robinson, Jamestown; H. L. Pick-

Dodgers Beaten Again by Reds As Mueller Hits Double in Pinch

By JOE REICHLER
(By The Associated Press)

Ray Mueller, the Cincinnati Reds' stocky little catcher, rapidly is acquiring a reputation as one of the most dangerous pinch-hitters in the National League.

Called from the bench in the sixth inning in Brooklyn yesterday, he batted out a base-clearing double that gave Cincinnati and come-back pitcher Elmer Riddle a 5-4 decision over the Dodgers.

It was his third straight blow in as many trips to the plate in a pinch role.

Riddle and Harry Gumbert, who relieved him in the sixth, gave the Dodgers 13 hits, including four-for-four by Jackie Robinson. The Reds got only eight safeties off lefty Joe Hatten, Ed Chandler, Clyde Kind and Vic Lombardi. Hatten was the loser.

Cincinnati scored first as a base on balls and successive singles by Benny Zientara, Augie Galan and Bert Haas, but Brooklyn tied it as Ed Stanky walked, was sacrificed to second and came home on Duke Snider's double.

The Dodgers went ahead in the fifth as Robinson tripled over

Cleveland Indians 3-0.

The league leading Detroit Tigers divided a double header with the Philadelphia Athletics. The Bengals easily won the first game 7-1 behind the seven hit pitching of big Al Benton, but were shut out 4-0 in the nightcap by Carl Scheib, a 20-year-old unheralded rookie who was making his first major league start.

Another rookie hurler, Frank Shea of the New York Yankees, had his seven game winning streak broken when Don Killoway tripped and George Dickey singled in the 11th inning to give Joe Haynes and the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 win in Chicago.

German Conversationalists Take a Dim View of Things

By JAMES DEVLIN
FRANKFURT—(AP)—You talk with Germans and you get some sardonic sidelights on life in this country today. Some quotes:

Student: "A friend of mine gets a food package every month from the United States. Each package includes two pounds of coffee. The food enables him to live and the coffee enables him to get an education. Selling 24 pounds of coffee gives him enough marks to go to a university for a year."

Passenger on a railroad train: "A man was on a train that stopped at each of two cities, but he wanted to go to a town between the cities. He gave the engineer 40 cigarettes and the train stopped at the town."

Second passenger: "But listen to this. My friend got to the end of a train's journey and wanted to go to a town ten miles farther on. He gave the engineer a pound of butter and a pound of coffee. The engineer unhooked the train and gave him a taxi ride in the locomotive to the place he wanted to go to."

Third passenger: "Say what you like about food, but if you want to make a German happy give him three cups of coffee and three cigarettes every day. That's what I like when I am nervous and I am nervous most of the time."

Blond waitress in the officers' club: "How do American women act toward us? The older ones, generals' and colonels' wives, usually are very kind and gracious. The younger ones—well, they are not so friendly. But the people who really seem angry with the Germans are Americans of German descent. They tell us what they think in our own language."

Six Caught Scaling Wall

MANSFIELD, June 12—(AP)—Six Ohio reformatory inmates sat in solitary confinement today awaiting prison court hearings Monday on an unsuccessful escape attempt.

Two of the men seized a ladder yesterday, scaled the 30-foot east wall and jumped to freedom, but were recaptured before they had run 150 yards. Guard W. R. Neale in the east tower thought at first they had been assigned to do some repair work but sounded the alarm when Everett Welling and George Poppick, two 24-year-old Lucas County prisoners serving armed robbery terms, vaulted over the wall. The other two would-be fugitives never got to the ladder.

Supt. Arthur Glatke identified the four with Welling and Poppick as Joe Miller, 24, also sentenced from Lucas County on an armed robbery conviction; James Brown, 23, from Belmont County for burglary; John Pastuzha, 22, from Jefferson County for auto theft, and Lawrence Rivera, 18, from Montgomery County for auto theft.

SELF-CLEANING

It Comes Up Shining After Each Rain

UPERCOVER is a modern self-cleaning House Paint, formulated so that, as time goes by, a microscopically fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash this powder away, taking dust and dirt with it, leaving the surface clean and white again. This "self-cleaning" is gradual, so that the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected. After years of service it leaves a perfect foundation for the next paint job.

Will Prosecute Many Persons Due to Fraud

Unemployment Funds Obtained Through Law Violations

At the present time 333 cases of alleged fraudulent claims for state unemployment benefits are being investigated in Ohio, but none of the cases are from Fayette County, Ward C. Miller, manager of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation office here said Thursday.

Only one instance of attempted fraud was reported at the office here, and the former soldier making the claim is paying back the amount he obtained through false information given to obtain payment.

In cases where evidence warrants, prosecutions under the Ohio law will follow, and the penalty is a severe one.

Most recent instances of punishment for fraudulently obtaining unemployment compensation, occurred at Youngstown during May, Robert Adams, of that city was convicted in Common Pleas Court of forging two benefit warrants, of $21.00 each, issued to an eligible claimant for benefits. Judge David G. Jenkins sentenced Adams to 20 years on each count. The convicted forger was on probation at the time of his arrest.

Henry Land, 27, of Campbell, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $25.00 by Youngstown's Municipal Judge Frank P. Anzellotti. The claimant was found to have illegally received $131.36 in unemployment benefit checks, although he was at the time employed at a Youngstown plant. Jail sentence was suspended on the condition he make restitution of the overpayment within 90 days.

On the subject of fraud, the Ohio law provides that: "Any person who, by means of a false statement or representation or by impersonation or any other fraudulent device whatever, obtains or attempts to obtain, for himself or any other person, bene-

DRIVER ARRESTED

James Lewis Westfall Jeffersonville, was taken into custody by Sheriff orland Hays and Deputy Guy Carter, here Wednesday night, and a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor was filed against him.

Judge H. M. Rankin fined Westfall $100 and costs, sentenced him to 30 days in jail, and revoked his drivers' license for one year. The thirty days in jail was suspended pending no further violations of law.

DRIVER FINED

In common pleas court Thursday, Virgil White, city, was fined $30 and costs and his driving license was revoked for six months, on a reckless driving charge. A previous charge of driving while under influence of liquor was withdrawn. White recently figured in a traffic accident.

On June 9, Judge Mell G. Underwood of the Federal District Court at Columbus, sentenced Paul E. Addington, an employed ex-serviceman of Trimble, Athens County, to 30 days in jail and placed him on probation for two years. Addington previously had pleaded guilty to accepting Veterans' Readjustment Allowances from the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation for 42 weeks, despite the fact that he held a job. Restitution of the amount illegally received has also been ordered.

Clovis Graves To Go To Convention

Clovis Graves, delegate from the Elks Lodge here, will represent Washington C. H. at the 1947 Elks Convention in Portland, Oregon, July 14 to 17 when 25,000 Elks, in delegations from the 1,450 lodges over the country gather for the annual event.

Graves stated that he will probably take the special train for the convention which leaves from Columbus for Portland on July 11. Grand Exalted Ruler Charles E. Broughton, of the national lodge, said that he expected this convention to be the largest in the history of the Elks. Representatives will come from such places as Alaska, Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines, in addition to every state in the union.

The keynote of the event will be the serious post-war benevolence, welfare and patriotic activities of the order, which started in 1869 and now has a membership of nearly 1,000,000, said Broughton.

During the past year, Broughton said he had been lining up the influence of the Elks against the Ku Klux Klan and against religious and racial hatreds and discriminations. Broughton also said that the Elks' work for veterans and the armed forces will be reviewed at the convention. This work includes veterans' rehabilitation programs, housing drives for veterans and welfare work in hospitals. The Elks have also given support to the army by appeals and efforts to help army recruiting.

Since their founding 79 years ago, said Broughton, the Elks have spent more than $70,000,000 in contributions to the public welfare. Scholarship funds are maintained for deserving students; he points out, donations continued for hospitals for crippled children, gifts and entertainment have been provided for veterans in 300 hospitals in 42 states.

to prosecution by Federal officials and if convicted, may be fined up to $1,000 or imprisoned for up to one year, or both. In addition, they forfeit their rights to receive readjustment allowances under the G. I. Bill, the BUC Administrator said.

No rollerskating will be allowed on the concrete tennis courts at Gardner Park, starting Thursday, said Fred Pierson, city recreation director.

By Monday, Pierson said, the new concrete courts there will be ready for use. Plans are still being made to provide lighting for night tennis games, he said.

Pierson also pointed out that horseshoe courts and equipment are now available all day and during the evening at Gardner Park. Adults are welcome in the recreation program as well as children, he said.

Yankey Accused By Watts Girl

Testifying for the state in the first degree murder trial of Cecil Yankey, now under way in Hillsboro Mabel Watts, who lived with Yankey, said that she was aroused by Yankey the night Leroy Woodland was murdered in Greenfield, and informed that Yankey was "going to knock Lee in the head". She collapsed and fell to the floor after testifying.

Then the point was raised as to whether a common law marriage exists between Cecil Yankey and the Watts woman, and this was argued at length.

Several Greenfield residents have testified for the state, and their evidence has been very strong against the accused man.

It is expected the case will be completed this week.
